The Project Rationale

In recent times, attention on sustainability is increasingly growing.

The Next Generation EU dedicates great part of its funds to ecological and green transition, while the new European Green Deal provides an action plan to make EU's economy sustainable, in line with SDGs from Agenda 2030.

Sustainable tourism is a trend for the development of the sector: VET system has the potential to anticipate market needs, providing competences on sustainability and green dimensions to VET learners, especially with fewer opportunities, ready to contribute to the resilience of tourism sector in postpandemic times.

In order to seize these opportunities, it is essential to create flexible and updated education and training opportunities in the sector of green tourism, that meet the needs of the labour market.
